

DOUGLASS E. PACE
CLASS OF 1993

Douglass E. Pace is the founder and CEO of Stonehill and a transformational leader known for developing innovative solutions to complex challenges. His work spans the private and public sectors, with governments, private equity firms, and Fortune 1000 executives seeking his expertise in strategy, mergers, infrastructure, technology, cybersecurity, and enterprise transformation.

Pace has advised more than 20 private equity-backed platforms on major acquisitions, led technology for Florida's statewide COVID-19 vaccination program, addressed cybersecurity vulnerabilities for county government, and advanced enterprise AI adoption at a Fortune 50 company. He is also a faculty instructor at the University of South Florida's Muma College of Business and developed the university's Design Thinking certification program. His honors include Entrepreneur of the Year from the American Business Awards and recognition by Consulting Magazine as one of the 75 Most Influential Consultants in the United States. Pace earned an associate of arts degree from Tallahassee State College, a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Florida, and additional executive and innovation credentials from the University of South Florida and Stanford University.
