

David Clark

CLASS OF 2006

David Clark believes in the power of teamwork. A former Airborne Officer in the United States Army, David has dedicated nearly two decades to public service, where he has earned a reputation for effective leadership and teamwork. As the Founder and Managing Partner of Allegiant Strategies Group and co-founder and CEO of MyGovGuide, David continues to drive innovative solutions.

His career includes serving as Deputy Chief of Staff to Governor Ron DeSantis, where he managed 13 state agencies and a budget exceeding $43 billion. David also played a pivotal role with First Lady Casey DeSantis, advancing initiatives for the well-being of Florida's youth and families. During the COVID-19 pandemic, he tackled critical technological challenges within the Department of Economic Opportunity, implementing cutting-edge solutions.

David's dedication to education is reflected in his service on the Tallahassee State College Cybersecurity Advisory Board, his roles with the Florida Talent Development Council, and the Florida Technology Foundation. He holds two MBAs, undergraduate degrees in Accounting and Business Administration, a certificate from MIT's Sloan School of Management, and a Florida Real Estate license.
